BIOGRAPHY

Lisa is a litigation attorney with experience in both civil and administrative law. Her clients include government and commercial health plans and insurers. Prior to joining DSR, Lisa worked in the Office of Enforcement at the California Department of Managed Health Care (DMHC). As an enforcement attorney, Lisa investigated and prosecuted matters involving health care service plans' compliance with the Knox-Keene Act, and she represented DMHC in administrative actions. Prior to DMHC, as plaintiff's counsel in civil matters, Lisa's practice involved extensive litigation from the initial pleading phase, discovery, law and motion practice, depositions, arbitration, mediation, settlement, and trial.

With this background, Lisa's health care practice focuses on representing health plans in government investigations, enforcement actions, litigation in state and federal court, administrative appeals, Medi-Cal state fair hearings, and payor-provider disputes. Lisa specializes in advising health plans on regulatory compliance matters, including compliance with the Knox-Keene Act and Medi-Cal program requirements. She has significant experience working with both the California Department of Health Care Services (DHCS) and DMHC related to investigations and enforcement actions. Lisa also advises health plans and payors on a variety of issues including breach of contract claims, coverage determinations, contracted and non-contracted payment disputes, utilization review, grievance and appeal processes, and medical necessity determinations.
